

Dark Portuguese

One of my personal favorite Mount Etna types, and not just because of the name. It's a vigorous growing tree, putting on several feet of growth each season, it also set a main crop the first year and Breba Crop 2nd season. Sweet berry/ figgy flavor that its sweetness intensifies once the fruit is allowed to dry on the tree.

Main Flavor Group: Bordeaux

Origin: Portugal

Type: Common

Cold Hardy: Yes

Container Variety: yes

Easy Rooting: yes

Main Season: mid

Breba Crop: yes

Fruit Size: Medium

Tree Vigor: Medium

